The Clergyman's Baby
Dandelions, Appropriate
One Pure Newspaper
What Father Thinks

—By Arthur Brisbane—

Copyright, 1921.

The Reverend Dr. Grant, whose Church of the Ascension ornaments Fifth avenue, found a girl baby on his doorstep. He is a bachelor, so four ladies of the congregation and one trained nurse are helping to take care of the baby. It has been christened, fed, and it sleeps next to Dr. Grant. It may, or may not, grow up in that pure atmosphere. The doctor hasn't decided.

Dr. Grant has before him an opportunity to study the power of environment compared with heredity.

To what extent could eighteen years spent in an Episcopalian rectory combat and offset the effects of five hundred thousand years of heredity?

That's an important question. We know that all the clergymen and bishops in the world if they adopted a young chimpanzee and raised it would have only a chimpanzee at the end.

How much can be done to change a human being? Can you really put anything in, or can you only draw out that which is already there?

Tomorrow will be Mothers' Day. Several million mothers will get up and go to work as usual, before the rest of the family and not know much about Mothers' Day. Every day is Mothers' Day for them—a day on which the mother does the work and the worrying for the others. In one spot on the Hudson River florists charged too much for carnations that go with Mothers' Day. So the citizens decided to wear dandelions instead. Highly appropriate. The average day of the average mother is better represented by a plain dandelion than by a fancy carnation.

A clergyman in Denver edited the Post and for one day made it as pure as snow. The Stillman family was barred, although it was a big Stillman day. No crime was mentioned, only the good, the true and the beautiful. It would interest the Reverend Dr. Hoyle, and educate him concerning the human jungle in which he lives, if he should run that kind of a paper on his own account for about a year.

M. S. Burch lives in Missouri, near Kansas City, has fifteen children and advises everybody to marry young. He has just married his daughter, Goldie, thirteen years old, to Jerry M. Hayes. His fifteen-year-old son was married last January to a girl of thirteen. Proud of his fifteen children, he says: "You can't marry too young."

It would be interesting to hear from Mrs. Burch, but that's the side you usually do NOT hear from.

For instance, interview, if you can find her, the mother that left her seventh baby on a doorstep in Brooklyn yesterday morning with this note pinned to it:

"The mother of this baby is trying to earn a living for six children and is herself sick. The father is dead. The baby is only two months old, and the finder will be lucky. Good bye and God bless you."

That mother might not share the views of Mr. Burch of Missouri.

Senator Kenyon of Iowa wisely proposes the establishment of a public welfare department whose head would have a place in the Cabinet. The department would include health, education, children's bureau and other departments. It would eliminate various unnecessary officials. It is a good idea, and the best man to sit in the Cabinet as the head of a new department would be General Sawyer, the President's physician.

Thomas A. Edison says "College men are amazingly ignorant." They are probably no more ignorant than they would have been had they remained out of college. Edison and others rather foolishly expect a college education to increase a man's ability. It does not do so. On the contrary it takes him away from the observation and study of practical life at a time when practical information is most easily absorbed. A college education of the average superficial kind is dangerous. It gives the young man a good opinion of himself, based on nothing. It makes him expect special consideration to which he is not entitled.

New York City, fighting the street car monopoly with omnibuses, will try something new. On Staten Island trolley cars with rubber tires will run on paved streets without rails, taking electric current from overhead wires. That is an interesting experiment. By and by flying machines will take their power by wireless from the earth and travel without fuel or engines. That will be more interesting.

MYSTERY CAR BEING TRAILED

B. U. Graduate's Body May Have Been Taken From Auto to Vermont Creek

Proctor, Vt., May 7.—Convinced that behind the absence of Marion Butterworth, the social secretary of Miss Emily Proctor, Vermont's wealthiest woman, is hidden a tragedy, the authorities concentrated their activities today in an effort to trace an automobile seen parked on the East Pittsford road and which may hold the key to the solution of the mystery.

Following the dynamiting of Columbian quarry, where two sticks of the explosive brought a "boil" from its 200-feet depth, and the valueless quest of Smith and Otter creek, the sheriff and his deputies started an investigation of garages throughout this section in an effort to trace the "mystery" car.

All they have to work upon is the information given by William Davenport. Questioned again he said the car was of a medium-sized touring type, having an engine which ran very smoothly and was dark colored and in good condition.

Additional facts were revealed by a

FIVE INJURED IN AUTO CRASH AT LEICESTER

Worcester, May 7.—Five were injured when a touring car driven by William J. Belleville, Worcester newspaper man, collided in Leicester with a car said to have been operated by Nicholas Rutgalona of Bartlett street, Somerville. All five occupants of Belleville's car were thrown out. Miss Florence Belleville, his sister, suffered concussion of the brain. The other occupants were Miss Lillian Mack, Peter Cote and Miss Elizabeth Blomquist. All escaped with minor injuries.

HONORED

Madame Marie Curie, discoverer of radium, upon whom Smith College will confer the title of Doctor of Science.

Northampton, May 7.—Madame Marie Curie, discoverer of radium, will make her first public appearance in the United States next Friday afternoon at a convocation called by Smith College to confer the degree of doctor of science upon the distinguished French woman. The ceremony will be held in John Green Hall, according to announcement made today.

From Smith College she will go to Vassar College for a similar honor.

Madame Curie is now on her way from France to this country and is expected to reach New York Tuesday or Wednesday of next week.

The entire program of the convocation at Smith College will not be prepared until after the arrival of Madame Curie, but will include conferring of the degree by President William Allen Neilson.

In addition to the trustees, faculty and students of Smith College, Mount Holyoke, Amherst and Massachusetts Agricultural colleges will be represented at the convocation.

TRAGEDY HORRIFIES WOMEN

Traffic in Cambridge Tube Delayed When Workingman Leaps in Front of Cars

An unidentified man between fifty and fifty-five years old, leaped to death under the wheels of an Elevated train from the platform of the Washington street station of the Cambridge tunnel today.

Scores saw the suicide. Several women became hysterical, and one or two fainted.

Traffic on the Cambridge line was delayed for fifteen minutes, while the body was removed.

It was taken to the division relief station and later to the North Grove street mortuary, where it awaits identification.

The victim was about 5 feet 9 inches tall, weighed 125 pounds, had iron gray hair, brown eyes, and defective teeth. He wore a blue coat, vest and trousers, a red coat sweater, black shoes, white socks and a blue and white striped shirt. He had a small amount of change in his pockets. It is believed he lived in Cambridge.

The car in front of which he threw himself was bound east from Andrew square.

Malcolm T. Hinds of Brighton, the motorman, and Patrick Mahoney of Cambridge, a guard, say that there is

26 COUNTS IN TWO BILLS

Grand Jury Indicts City Cashier for Thefts and Forgeries

The Grand Jury for Suffolk County today returned two indictments against Thomas G. O'Daly, formerly cashier in the office of the city treasurer of Boston.

One of the indictments in seven counts alleges larceny, and the other contains nineteen counts each for forgery and uttering acceptances for money.

The specific charges of larceny against O'Day are that on January 22, 1918, he stole $1,000, on January 27, 1918, $6,000, on February 26, 1919, $1,500; on March 23, 1919, $3,300; on December 27, 1919, $900; on May 15, $5,090.22; and on April 7, 1921, $10,000.

The latter, which is known as a blanket count, covers the $23,790.22 above enumerated, and was brought to the attention of the Grand Jury by the auditor who is engaged in examining the accounts of O'Day.

Among papers turned over by O'Day to aid the auditor in his investigation was one in which $40,000 was mentioned.

O'Daly will not be arraigned for several days and when he appears before the court it is believed he will

Worcester Phone Girl Is Fire Heroine

Worcester, May 7.—Miss Adline O'Malley, telephone operator at the Warren Hotel, was hailed as a heroine today after sticking to her post amid stifling, swirling clouds of smoke until all the guests had been aroused and made their escape when flames threatened to destroy the hotel.

Calling all the rooms and sending in a call for the fire department, Miss O'Malley was slightly injured as she was caught in the crowd as she sought to make her own escape after assisting in administering first aid to District Chief Spooner, who had been overcome by smoke.

Spooner and four other firemen were overcome and fifty guests driven to the street.

By a dint of hard work the firemen confined the blaze, which started in a small storeroom in the cellar, but the smoke, seeping through the entire building, which was one of the largest hostelries in the city, forced the guests to flee.

The Winter Garden was flooded. Damage was estimated at $500.

The firemen overcome were:

District Fire Chief William R. Spooner, taken to fire headquarters in the police ambulance.

District Fire Chief Fred S. Taylor, taken to the School street quarters.

Harry Douglas, fireman, Ladder 3, taken home.

James Grady, fireman, Ladder 3, taken to Worcester City Hospital.

Daniel Bresnahan, fireman, Hose 7, taken to Worcester City Hospital.

SHOE AGREEMENT IS SEEN IN HAVERHILL

Haverhill, May 7.—By agreeing to base new prices for work on averages obtained from organized shoe centres, the Haverhill Manufacturers' Association has paved the way to an agreement with the cutters, which is expected by Monday. Eighteen thousand shoe workers are involved.

FIRE STARTS IN DENTAL OFFICE

Blaze of Undetermined Origin Damages Roslindale Building

Fire of undetermined origin in the two-story brick building at No. 751 South street, Roslindale, did damage estimated at $3,000 early today.

The fire started in the dental office of Dr. I. A. Sager on the second floor. The building is owned by J. Franklin Waters, who conducts a candy store on the first floor. Damage on the first floor was caused mostly by smoke and water. Edward Burns of Selwyn street, Roslindale, discovered the blaze.

FIRE DAMAGES WEST ROXBURY BUILDING

Fire of undetermined origin started on the first floor of a two-story brick building, No. 754 South street, West Roxbury, burning up to the second floor before it was extinguished. The fire caused damage estimated at $2,000. No one was in the building at the time.

FIVE INJURED IN BOMB EXPLOSION

Detroit, May 7.—Five persons were injured and buildings for 100 yards around were shaken by a bomb explosion in Oakland boulevard, Highland Park, today. John Dewiemmache, proprietor of a fruit and grocery store within a few feet of whose sleeping room the explosion occurred, had received blackhand letters and telephone calls demanding in all $6,000, he told the police.

Fervent Extracts From Indian's Letters

The following are excerpts from the seven letters alleged to have been written by Fred K. Beauvais, Indian guide, to Mrs. "Fifi" Potter Stillman:

From "Letter B."—"I never knew or understood what it felt to be a father or mother before."

From "Letter C."—"If anyone tries to make love to you down there and I find out, I will kill them sure, because you are all mine and Guy's; or, rather, I am all yours and Guy's to the end."

From "Letter D."—"Oh, yes, dearest honey, there was a letter come for you from Miss Oliver and I was dying to get news of Guy, so I opened it."

From "Letter E."—"All I ask and pray God for is that you may get well and strong, and that some day you will let me see you and Guy, the only real loved ones I ever had."

From "Letter F."—"Oh, I long to give you a nice, big hug, dearest, my life, my only hope; yes, you are my soul . . . you are my soul growing into me."

From "Letter G."—"I hope you have received the four-leaf clover I sent you on Sunday, and here is another, with a drop of blood."

From "Letter H."—"Lots and lots of Akwerie."

GIRL HUNTED IN GEM THEFT

Dorchester Police Also Want Man Who Said He Was Her Brother

Police of the Fields Corner station, Dorchester, are hunting for a man and woman, said to be Patrick and Annie Donovan, who are wanted in connection with the theft of $650 worth of jewelry from the home of Melvin W. Kenney, No. 17 Tremlett street, Dorchester.

According to the story told by the police Kenney advertised for a housemaid and the man Donovan replied to the advertisement. He is alleged to have said that his sister, Annie, twenty-three years old, had just arrived in this country from Ireland, and that he wanted to get her a place as maid in a good family.

Donovan gave the telephone number of a garage on Broadway, Revere, as his business address. Later he went to the garage, according to the police, and asked as a favor, if they would note any calls for him, taking the telephone number.

Friday morning the Kenneys decided to employ the girl and telephoned to the number the man had given. The woman appeared shortly afterwards and went to work.

Later in the day Mrs. Kinney noticed her, wearing a bungalow apron, walking out of the house, but thought she was taking some refuse to the street.

When she failed to return a search was made and the loss of the jewelry, consisting of a number of rings, bracelets and other trinkets, was discovered.

INAUGURATE SUN YAT SEN PRESIDENT OF CHINA

London, May 7.—Dr. Sun Yat Sen has been inaugurated President of China at Canton in the presence of a vast multitude and amidst enthusiastic scenes, said a dispatch from Hong Kong today.

(Dr. Sun Yat Sen was one of the chief leaders of the Chinese revolution, which overturned the old Manchu imperial government ten years ago. After the revolution he served as the first provisional president of China. Since that time a hostile division has grown up between northern and southern China.)

ATTEMPT TO LOOT PAWNSHOP FOILED

New Bedford, May 7.—The twenty-fifth attempt in five years to break into the pawnshop of Samuel Sieneusky at Acushnet avenue and Hicks street failed when the approach of a policeman frightened the burglars away after they had almost finished cutting the lock out of the rear door. The officer did not catch sight of the burglars, who evidently had a lookout stationed to warn them of his approach.

ORDER INQUEST IN WORCESTER KILLING

Worcester, May 7.—An inquest was ordered for Friday, May 13, on the death of Edward Scott of No. 68 Winfield street, who was shot Tuesday by Patrolman Thomas F. Wynne.

HARBOR TIED UP BY STRIKE

Every Towboat Except Two Out of Commission When Engineers Quit

Every boat in Boston harbor, except two small tugs hauling city garbage, was tied up today when union engineers were called out on strike. This action was taken as a result of the attempt of the towboat owners to replace striking firemen by strike-breakers.

As a result the movement of shipping in the harbor came to an absolute standstill, and a shortage of coal will result unless a settlement is reached.

Nearly forty tugs were struck, the combined fleet of a number of companies relied upon by ship owners to move coal barges and schooners to various terminals and to assist in docking other vessels.

The union leaders exempted the two tugs in towing barges loaded with garbage and refuse for disposal in the outer bay on sanitary grounds.

HAMON GIRL'S $3,000,000 CLAIM CALLED BLACKMAIL

Chicago, May 7.—Mrs. Jake L. Hamon, widow of the oil magnate for whose murder Clara Smith Hamon was acquitted, today characterized as "blackmail" the claims of Clara to a share in the Hamon fortune. Clara had demanded that Fred R. Ellis, attorney for the Hamon estate, turn over to her $3,000,000. "I am going to fight the claims of this woman," Mrs. Hamon said today. "Her demands are nothing but blackmail."

DEFENCE OF POPE WINS FALL RIVER MAN HONOR

Fall River, May 7.—Alphonse N. Bourget, 367 Robeson street, has received a brief from Pope Benedict making him a Roman Knight of the Order of Pope Pius IX, with the right to wear the uniform. The honor was for active military service in defending the temporal power of the pope in the sixties and seventies.

STEAMSHIP ASHORE ON FLORIDA REEF

New York, May 7.—Wireless reports received here today stated that the steamer El Amigo is ashore on French Reef, off the Florida coast. The message stated that the ship was in no immediate danger. A naval tug has been sent to her assistance and she is expected to be floated today.

TWO DIE WHEN ELEVATOR FLOOR IS RIPPED UP

New York, May 7.—Two men plunged to their death from the fourth story and another was seriously injured when the floor of an elevator in a lower Broadway building was ripped out by a bale of cotton which became wedged between the bottom of the car and the top of the elevator opening.

BABY GUY SCORES POINT

Dr. Russell's Testimony and "Dear Honey" Letters Barred in Paternity Issue

By International News Service.

New York, May 7.—An important point has been won for Baby Guy Stillman, "The silent principal in the Stillman divorce case," by a ruling of Referee Daniel J. Gleason that neither the testimony of Dr. Hugh Russell of Buffalo, nor the disputed "Dear Honey" letter alleged to have been written by Fred Beauvais, should be admitted as evidence so far as the controversy over the paternity of the boy is concerned.

This ruling was secured by John E. Mack, guardian at law for Guy. The referee assured Mr. Mack that the Russell testimony and the "Dear Honey" letter would be considered only as affecting the multimillionaire's plea for a divorce.

Mrs. "Fifi" Potter Stillman made the angry accusation today that an attempt had been made to "frame up" the case. Counsel for Mrs. Stillman declared they had learned that one woman, who is expected to testify for the former banker, formerly had close relations with a band of men and women of shady character who were once suspected of blackmailing wealthy men and women at Atlantic City.

This woman was not identified, but it was said she was on good terms with the plaintiff who had advanced her money.

Planned to Go to France

Mrs. Stillman's lawyers were deeply resentful over the publication of letters alleged to have been written by Beauvais. They alleged that representatives of "the other side" had violated secrecy agreements.

Some of the letters began: "My dearest Kathi" and others "My dearest Honey." One revealed that Mrs. Stillman was planning to go to France. The last letter dated June 15, 1920, says:

"Let us go through the Canadian Rockies instead of you going to the other side, dear. There are some wonderful sites. Please call me up again

BILL PROTECTS PAPERS FROM SLACKER SUITS

Washington, May 7.—A resolution safeguarding newspapers from civil liability or damages resulting from publication of the slackers' lists, was introduced in the House by Representative Hill of Maryland. The House Tuesday authorized the lists to be published in the Congressional record. The Department of Justice would conduct the defence in any suit brought against a newspaper for publication of the list, the resolution provides. It also would have the United States government indemnify the newspaper for any damages and would hold the newspaper harmless.

PENNSYLVANIAN HELD HERE AS SWINDLER

Leroy E. Tucker, forty-two, of Dunmore, Pa., was arrested in the Back Bay, charged with the larceny on April 28 of $152.44 by passing a worthless check on Bowditch & Clapp, wholesale milliners at No. 111 Chauncy street, and with defrauding the Hotel Somerset of $47.69 between April 2 and 16, by failure to pay for board and lodging. He is wanted on similar charges in Fitchburg, Worcester and Cambridge.

Irish-Americans in Erin's Army

By International News Service.

London, May 7.—Many Irish-Americans who were officers in the United States army during the World War have arrived in Ireland to join the Irish republican army, it was learned from an authoritative source this afternoon.

Some of the Irish-Americans were said to have been in training for several months, studying "ambush fighting." It is believed that the Irish republican army command is organizing a squadron composed exclusively of Irish-Americans.

Parallels in Disappearance of Secretaries

MAUDE M. DANIELS

MARION BUTTERWORTH

A number of interesting parallels are afforded in the mysterious disappearances of Miss Maude M. Daniels, who left her Gainsboro street home November 28, 1920, and Miss Marion Butterworth, who dropped out of sight at Proctor, Vt., May 3. A study of both cases reveals many similarities in the lives of the two women, as well as in the details connected with their disappearances. These, so far as known, follow:

MAUDE M. DANIELS

College graduate—Radcliffe.
Forty years old.
Secretary to E. A. Merritt.
Parents dead.
Lived in rooming house.
No love affairs.
High type mentally.
Suffered from nervous troubles.
Lived near Muddy river.
Acteu peculiarly before disappearance.
Visited relatives shortly before disappearnce.
Last seen in evening.
No financial troubles.

MARION BUTTERWORTH

College graduate—Boston University.
Thirty-four years old.
Secretary to Miss Emily D. Proctor.
Parents dead.
Lived in rooming house.
No love affairs.
High type mentally.
Suffered from nervous troubles.
Lived near Otter Creek.
Acted peculiarly before disappearance.
Visited relatives shortly before disappearnce.
Last seen in evening.
No financial troubles.

Boston friends of Miss Maud M. Daniels, Christian Science secretary, who dropped out of sight in this city November 28, 1920, declared today that the mystery of her disappearance was as far from solution as ever. They stated that nothing is being done to locate the girl, as a result of the belief that she had deliberately gone away and submerged her identity in a desire to change her environment. The last move in the case was made some weeks ago, when her sister, Miss Mary Daniels, now living on a ranch outside Denver, Colorado, came to Boston and collected the missing girl's effects at her Gainsboro street lodging house.

Public Schools Kill Brains, Says Edison

West Orange, N. J., May 7.—Public schools of America are killing the brains of the nation's children.

Only one man out of twenty-three is able to pass a satisfactory mental test, because his brain is atrophied.

If a child does not have an active interest in life before he is [illegible] nothing can be done with him.

These are some of the things Thomas A. Edison, the electrical wizard of Llewellyn Park, has found out by a series of brain tests he has been conducting at his great laboratories here.

As a result of his investigations into human psychology the inventor has a new scheme for the betterment of mankind. He would teach all children by pictures instead of words.

"In my estimation the public school system of this country is miserable. There is not enough that is joyous and attractive in it to appeal to the children. A dominating personality is needed to flood this country with educational pictures which would rouse the mentality of the population, now dormant under the lethargic influences of the present methods of teaching."

The new Edison tests have nothing in common with the army intelligence tests, the Simon Binet formulas or the kindred tests which have been in use elsewhere.

For six months now the new system of ascertaining the abilities of the men he would employ in his plant has been under way, and only three of the men he has selected have failed him, says the inventor.

The Edison idea of the man with brains is one who sees with understanding eye what is going on around him in the world. He must be well up in the rudiments of history, geography, mathematics and science. Above all else, the man Edison wants must be in close touch with current events, and must show ability to continue acquiring knowledge.

Summing up results, Mr. Edison said that one man out of twenty-three passes Class A, one in eighteen is in Class B and the others are X, Y, and Z. Class A men are usually between twenty-two and twenty-seven. One out of twenty-three men who are college trained rank as Class A against one out of 100 without such training. Unless a man passes Class A he is not employed at the plant.

"They can't fool me," smiled the inventor. "The tests show whether the man has trained brains or dead brains."

Try Edison's Test for College Men

Thomas A. Edison says college men who wanted to work for him were unable to answer these questions:

What is copra?

Where is Magdalena Bay?

What is Zinc?

How did Cleopatra die?

What are felt hats made of?

What is the greatest depth of the ocean?

What fabric is used in auto tires?

Try 'em yourself.

BOSTON SOON TO HEAR COMMANDER BOOTH

Concluding an 11,000-mile trip during which she visited all the principal cities in the United States, Evangeline Booth, commander-in-chief of the Salvation Army, will visit Boston from Saturday, May 14, to Monday, May 16. She will speak at four meetings, the principal one being at the Tremont Temple on Sunday afternoon at 3 o'clock.

Major-General Clarence R. Edwards, U. S. A., will preside.

Commander Booth will speak at the First Baptist Church Saturday evening at a special meeting for Salvation Army soldiers and their friends. The Sunday afternoon meeting at Tremont Temple will be open to the public, as will be the meeting Sunday evening at People's Temple, Columbus avenue and Berkeley street. On Monday morning Commander Booth will speak before the Ministerial Alliance.

Paris, May 7.—That the stomach is a superfluous organ is the startling discovery of Dr. Victor Pauchet, reported to the Academy of Medicine.

Affirming that he has successfully removed the stomach from a woman fifty years old, who had continued to live happily in perfect health, he reports that the operation also cured her of cancer.

"The stomach's action is purely preliminary," stated Dr. Pauchet. "The mechanism for the vital part of the digestion is in the small intestine, with the intervention of the pancreatic juice and the bile. Therefore, providing the patient follows a light diet, the stomach can be dispensed with advantageously."

Church Nurses Care for Babes Mothers' Day

All out for Mothers' Day.

In order that the entire family, and mother in particular, may attend divine services tomorrow, the Rev. E. G. Guthrie, pastor of the Union Congregational Church, Columbus avenue, has devised a plan which he intends to keep in operation for some time to come.

Every mother with a young child, who heretofore has been forced to remain at home Sunday mornings, will find a competent nurse in the vestry of the church, ready to relieve her of her duties during the service.

"I do not wish, however, to centralize the sentiment of this occasion wholly upon the mother," he explained.

"We are going to show what mother is doing for the family and how precious that name is to us all. But in Union Church we are going to make the old family pew conspicuous. We want families to sit together—father, mother and the children.

"This is the idea which we are trying to inaugurate on Mothers' Day. Of course, we will give prominence to the mothers, but we want a didactic purpose in the observance of the occasion which is not all mere sentiment.

"In other words, Mothers' Day will appeal to us because we want the family represented in church services. This staying at home on Sundays and let mother cook the dinner, we are trying to break up. We want mothers, fathers, children all in church one hour or more on Sundays.

"We think that Mothers' Day will start this in our neighborhood. If the children come there is a special service for them which they will enjoy. White pinks will be worn by all in memory of their mothers, but this is the practical way that we are to observe the occasion."

TO MOTHER

She's a little body with a manner plain and neat,
A tiny bit old-fashioned, with less style and more discreet;
Her hair that's spun of gold, parted low, madonna-wise,
And oh! the love and pardon that shines through my mother's eyes;
The brow that's furrowed o'er with less time and more of care;
The neck curved for encircling, the breast for pillowing there;
The arms with burdens filled, less of load and more of joy;
The hands that are calloused are with deeds for girl or boy.
The feet that tiresome tread where love's duty bids them go;
The ears that hear but song in the laughs and sobs also;
The mouth's tender affection, yet firm when things go wrong;
No Venus-form more lovely than the burden of my song!
Big soul, in frail body, like the angels seem above,
Oh! she's a little body, but the body that I love!

Polish Troops Take 3 Towns and Threaten Seat of Control Commission

By International News Service.

Berlin, May 7.—Polish rebels have invested Koenigshuette, Glewitz and Nicola, three important towns in Upper Silesia, and have already inflicted more than 100 casualties upon the Italian troops, who have borne the brunt of the fighting upon the allied side, according to information from Beuthen today.

The Poles are said to be menacing the Oppeln district, the seat of the inter-allied control commission.

The allied troops, estimated at more than 10,000 men, are short of arms, but the Poles are well supplied and in the past few days have captured a large amount of artillery from the Italian plebiscite troops.

Heavy fighting has occurred in the region of Gross-Strehlitz, where the Poles attacked the Italians with infantry and artillery.

DECIDE AUTO SPOONING WAR IS TOO COSTLY

Wakefield, May 7.—Let the auto lovers spoon on. It costs too much to stop 'em. This is the edict of the town finance committee, which is opposing a proposal to spend $9,000 to light outlying sections.

The demand was made following the murder of Patrolman James A. Preston, who was patrolling lonely, unlighted Lowell street to stop "auto spooning" as a result of a protest against immoral conditions. The selectmen and light commissioners had agreed upon a general plan to light all sections where such conditions had been found, but the finance committee decided the cost was prohibitive.

WILLIAMSTOWN PROTESTS TUBERCULAR HOSPITAL

Williamstown, May 7.—Contending that the establishment of a tubercular hospital for World War veterans in South Williamstown will prove a menace to general health and tend to keep wealthy Summer residents away from the town, as well as affect attendance of students at Williams College, local residents have united in a protest against the government taking over the Idlewild Hotel property for such a purpose.

Petitions are being circulated and telegrams have been sent to United States Senator Henry Cabot Lodge, Congressman Allen T. Treadway and other public officials.

BOY CONFESSES LOOTING SHOP

Two Youths Weighted Down With Haberdashery Arrested in Somerville

Weighted down with bundles and wearing men's overalls, the pockets of which were bulging with coppers, nickels and dimes, Charles F. Reddington, fourteen years old, of No. 527 Medford street, Charlestown, and Benjamin Smith, thirteen years old, of No. 17 Beech street, Charlestown, were found by Patrolmen Donovan and Lucey on Joy street, Somerville, according to testimony in the juvenile session of the Somerville court.

The bundles found with the boys contained a box containing $30 in pennies, fancy shirts, stockings, underwear, neckties, collars, cuffs, bric-a-brac, gum and other articles, all valued at $100.

The money found in their pockets totalled $13.50. Each boy was charged with breaking and entering Bornstein's haberdashery, No. 172 Washington street, Somerville.

Judge Farrell continued the case until next Saturday to allow the probation officers to look up the records of the accused.

When arrested the boys gave fictitious names at the station house and said they had been selling papers and walked home from a Boston newspaper mailing room, where they got the bundles, they said. They repeated over and over to the policemen that they had had a good day selling papers.

Several hours later Patrolman James A. Fitzgerald discovered that Bornstein's haberdashery had been broken into and reported the matter at the Somerville station. It was then that Reddington broke down and confessed.

He said that he and Smith found an open window in the store and entered the place.

ARLINGTON SEEKING 5-CENT CAR FARE

Through its transportation committee the Arlington Board of Trade will confer with the officials of the Boston Elevated Railway to see if the company will establish a five-cent carfare within the limits of the town. The board will start a petition to have the postoffice authorities put in use an additional automobile truck in order that the large amount of business in town may be handled more rapidly.

COMES TO LIFE, "SPOILS" PLANS FOR HIS FUNERAL

Athol, May 7.—Adam Klinck, No. 570 Cottage street, was very much alive today, while a perfectly good funeral is spoiled. For, just as the undertaker was planning how many machines he would need yesterday, Klinck sat up in his "death bed" and vigorously protested. He had been ill some time and his "death" was ascribed today to a fainting spell.

ST. PAUL'S SCHOOL HEAD DECLINES TRINITY CALL

Manchester, N. H., May 7.—The Rev. Samuel Smith Drury, for ten years rector and headmaster at St. Paul's School, Concord, has decided not to accept the rectorship of Trinity Church, New York, to succeed Bishop-elect William T. Manning. Dr. Drury in declining the call said that he felt he should remain in Concord and complete work begun by him there.

B. C. DRIVE HITS $886,000 MARK

Alumni Meeting at City Club Boost Pledges; Whirlwind Campaign on Monday

Contribution to the Boston College building fund has reached the $886,000 mark as a result of a mass meeting at the City Club. The meeting drew a large attendance of alumni and was by far the greatest demonstration of the campaign.

Individual pledges of $500, and in some cases larger sums, were made by every man present, and each one promised to secure a similar pledge from at least one fellow alumnus unable to be there. These pledges are in addition to donations previously given, and in some cases the pledges given were for larger sums.

BISHOP GIVES $11,000.

Rt. Rev. Bishop Joseph G. Anderson, pastor of St. Peter's Parish of Dorchester, announced his personal contribution as $11,000.

Whirlwind campaigning will commence Monday, with Tuesday night the big night for Boston itself. On that night over a hundred rallies will be held, at which speakers from the Alumni will present the cause of Boston College in sterling fashion. The call issued at the meeting for speakers and for additional canvassers resulted in the securing of a long list of names to handle the various assignments.

IRISH SOCIETIES GIVE.

Another meeting at which Boston College received a big boost was the gathering of delegates from thirty-eight branches to the convention of the Boston Central Council of the Irish County Associations, held in Deacon Hall, 1651 Washington street, South End. The drive was heartily endorsed, and $100 was voted as a contribution to the fund. Frank M. Ternan presided and Andrew J. Ryan read the various reports.

JOINT MOTHERS' DAY MEETING ON COMMON

The Volunteers of America, with the Y. D. Association, American Legion and women's auxiliaries, Boy Scouts, Red Cross nurses, Women's Relief Corps, Boston University faculty and Gold Star Mothers, will observe "Mothers' Day" Sunday afternoon with a mass meeting and concert at Parkman bandstand on Boston Common.

An awning on the first floor of the American House caught fire, presumably from a cigarette thrown from an upper window. The blaze was extinguished by Chemical 1, with damage estimated at $10.

CITY HOSPITAL TO BE ENLARGED

Research Laboratory and Clinical Amphitheatre Will Be Among Additions

[illegible]

Mayor Peters has added $150,000 to the $[illegible] left by the late George L. Thorndike for this memorial to his brother. Enlarging the out-patient building from three and one-half to six stories will cost $[illegible].

The basement floor and first floor will have a medical amphitheatre to seat about 150 persons attending medical clinics.

The trustees, while expressing appreciation of Mayor Peters' liberality, declare that much more money could be expended as the hospital must eventually have 2,000 beds.

SLASH CHEVROLET CAR PRICES DOWN 21 P. C.

New York, May 7.—Auto Row got a straight arm jolt today when it read announcements in the morning papers that the Chevrolet Motor Company had reduced its prices approximately 21 1-3 per cent for its four-ninety models, effective today.

Under the new price list the Chevrolet four-ninety touring car will list at $645, a reduction of $175; the roadster at $615, a reduction of $160; the sedan at $1195, a reduction of $180; the coupe at $1155, a reduction of $170, and the light delivery wagon at $645, a reduction of $175.

These new prices are said to make the Chevrolet four-ninety the lowest priced fully equipped car on the market.

FOUR VETERANS NAMED TO CITY HEALTH POSTS

Mayor Peters appointed four World War veterans to positions in the health department. They were as follows: John F. Fitzgerald, Jr., now a clerk, to be food inspector at $1,400 a year; Henry P. Walsh, now a provisional food inspector at $1,300 a year, and Frank Gaffey and William J. Crotty as food inspectors at $1,200 a year. The mayor also appointed Dr. William S. Lynch to be X-ray technician at the City Hospital at $30 a week.

THOUSANDS VIEW WINDOW SHOW OF RIDE AWARDS

Thousands of persons gathered about the spacious window of Hallet and Davis Piano Company, No. 146 Boylston street, today and viewed the five high grade bicycles to be awarded to men, women and children participating in the big social bicycle ride of the Boston American from Copley square to Franklin Field, Sunday afternoon, May 15.

Twenty-one additional prizes, including gold watches, gold, silver and bronze medals and bicycle accessories, will be displayed later. All these prizes have been donated by dealers and manufacturers throughout the country.

TWO OLD MODELS SHOWN.

In addition to the galaxy of modern bicycles displayed in the window, two models of other days are shown. One is a "boneshaker" (vintage of 1867) with wooden wheels and spokes and iron tire and a high wheel "ordinary" purchased thirty-four years ago. These old-time models attracted much attention.

Both will be ridden in the American run, the "boneshaker" by Ed. Wilson, former English amateur champion, and the "highboy" by Francis G. Gibbs of Winthrop. All obsolete steeds will be ridden at the head of the procession.

The prize wheels being exhibited are an "Indian" "motor bike" contributed by George N. Holden; "Emblem" bicycle, donated by Hub Cycle Company; "Black Beauty" bicycle, given by Haverford Cycle Company; "Henderson" bicycle, donated by General Motorcycle Sales Company, and "Walker" bicycle, contributed by W. J. Walker Company.

The total value of the prizes to be awarded in the American run is close to $2,000.

BOYS WANT "BABE" RUTH BAT.

Many of the boys who are planning to take part in the ride are more interested in the original home-run bat contributed by "Babe" Ruth than in any other prize.

What boy wouldn't want to own a bat with which this hero of baseball fans has knocked out a homer?

Ruth assured the bicycle editor that he will ship the bat from New York in a day or two. Upon arrival it will be displayed with the other prizes.

New Zealand Reserves Right to Bar Japs

Victoria, B. C., May 7—British dominions bordering upon the Pacific coast must strengthen their naval defenses, it was declared here by Premier W. F. Massey, of New Zealand, en route to London to attend the imperial conference.

"There can be no objection to the renewal of the Anglo-Japanese agreement so long as the dominions are given the right to choose their own citizens," he said.

A constitution for the "British Commonwealth of Nations" and an imperial executive are vital if the present solidarity of the British overseas dominions and the mother country England is to be maintained, Premier Massey declared.

Professor Porter Resigns

Professor Dwight Porter, senior professor of hydraulic and sanitary engineering at the Massachusetts Institute of Technology, has resigned. Old age was given as the reason for his action.

50 GET SPECIAL LIGHT RATES

Council Chamber Speaker Says Edison Co. Keeps Private List of Favored Customers

Raymond F. Delano, chairman of the gas and light committee of the United Improvement Association, speaking in the City Council chamber at the first public hearing on the advisability of establishing a municipal lighting plant, charged the Edison Company kept a private list of their books of new customers who were given special rates.

He charged the Edison Company with maintaining a complete monopoly of the wiring rights of every street and passageway in Boston and suggested to the presiding officer, Councillor James A. Watson, that a new Boston tea party might remedy the situation.

Watson promised to request Mayor Peters to petition the Legislature for a repeal of the existing acts covering wiring matters.

Delano condemned the lighting companies as un-American and unpatriotic and charged that their actions were more harmful in respect to undermining the government than the agitation of "Reds."

The Edison Company, Delano charged, in order to meet special competition has reduced the rate per kilowatt to 1½ cents in certain instances, and were now supplying a few large users of light and power at 2½ cents, although the regular rates were 10 and 12 cents.

He described the system of interlocking directorates, which he alleged controlled all local utility corporations.

John P. Harty of the Harvard Improvement Association expressed fear that the gas situation might be neglected for the Edison Light probe, but Councillor Watson assured him that both would receive equal consideration.

BOY SCOUT LEADERS PLAN SEA TRAINING AT MARION

BILL PROTECTS AIR INDUSTRY

U. S. Army and Chiefs Support New's Proposed Tariff Amendment

Washington, May 7.—An amendment to the emergency tariff bill, designed to protect the American aircraft industry, was introduced in the Senate by Senator Harry S. New of Indiana.

The amendment has the support of the chiefs of both army and navy.

"This amendment," said Senator New, "gives notice to the Treasury Department and all its agents, as well as to the aeronautical industry in this and other countries, that it is the policy of this government to build up, foster and support the aeronautical industry in the United States and not permit interference by any unfair competition."

The menace to American aeronautics," Senator New said, "first appeared last year when the British government disposed of 100,000,000 pounds worth of surplus air material to the Aircraft Disposals Company, Limited, for 1,000,000 pounds, or 1 per cent. of its worth, with the understanding that the government would receive 50 per cent. of the net profits of the resale. Similar attempts were made by France and Italy.

"A considerable quantity of this surplus British material was shipped to the United States. Sale has thus far been prevented through court injunctions based on suits involving infringement of the Wright patents."

Husband Jealous of New Baby, Wife Says

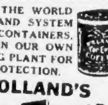

Portland, Me., May 7—The coming of a new born baby made her husband so jealous that life with him was unbearable, Mrs. Nellie Steinmetz told a judge here in defense of her plea for divorce.

Charging that the husband, Eugene Steinmetz of Boston, treated her cruelly after the arrival of the infant and that he was jealous of every one else that came into the house, she said that she had been unable to live with him for several years. They were married in 1905.

MAY NUMBER NOW ON THE BETTER NEWSSTANDS

HEARST'S INTERNATIONAL has always the best work of the best American writers and artists.

But it has also, as regular contributors, the great thinkers and great writers of the entire world.

It is the one publication today that is as International in scope as it is American in spirit and treatment. For instance—in MAY:

Rex Beach, Montague Glass, Donn Byrne, Robert W. Chambers —for AMERICA

Hall Caine, George Bernard Shaw, H. G. Wells, John Drinkwater —for ENGLAND

Johan Bojer —for NORWAY

Maurice Level —for FRANCE

And a number of others from both sides of the Atlantic —for THE WORLD

HAROUN AL RASCHID'S reign at Bagdad was indeed rich in great men. Whole caravans of money and goods which came to the Caliph were prodigally lavished on the "grave and pleasant people" with whom he surrounded himself—the greatest poets, legalists, scientists, literati, musicians and artists in the world of that day.

• • • • • •

So Hearst's International has attracted to itself the leading lights of literature, statesmanship, science and art from all over the world—the modern successors of those who "tickled Haroun's intellectual palate with pictures, songs, stories, pleasantries and new facts of learning."

HARDING FACES DOUBLE TASK

Divided Senates and Crazy French Politicians Hold Up Peace Moves

By NORMAN HAPGOOD.
Boston American Staff Correspondent.

Washington, May 7.—The attitude of the administration toward foreign affairs is simply that it will do as much as it can without future commitments.

Norman Hapgood

In practice this means that it will do as much as it can without get[illegible] into a fight with the irrecon[illegible] [illegible].

From the moment the present administration took charge I have insisted that the President was determined to play a leading role in straightening out the mess abroad.

REASONS ARE ACCEPTABLE.

His reasons have been easy to understand, whether one accepted them or not. For my part, I accept them, but I am not the United States Senate.

His reasons are briefly two. He believes that our own welfare cannot be separated from stability in Europe. [illegible]

[illegible]

FACE VICTORS' INSANITY.

Mr. Harding and Mr. Hughes have a difficulty to face even greater than the active hostility of part of the Senate. It is the insanity of the [illegible].

[illegible]

STIRRED POLISH TROUBLE.

[illegible]

As to the second article, the [illegible] [illegible] a question of fact, and the [illegible] [illegible] partial view. The view taken is nothing but old-fashioned [illegible].

[illegible] Napoleon. [illegible]

These are the aspects of his life that are of most concern now and ought to be most discussed in Europe.

DEVELOPED BY INTERFERENCE.

Granted his genius, that developed Napoleon into the expanding military force that required twenty years of war to suppress was the Allied interference with the natural course of the French revolution.

The other great nations of Europe took the same view of the French revolution that was taken of the Russian revolution for more than two years by the present great nations of Europe, and that is still taken by France and the United States.

This interfered with, and prevented from working out its destiny normally at home. The French revolution began to overrun the continent.

PRUSSIA MAY YET RISE.

Happily for us, although the mistakes of our statesmen reproduced, without semi-colon of change, the mistakes of a century and a quarter earlier, Russia was not in a condition to win victories outside of her own boundaries. She may yet do it if we treat both Germany and Russia long enough in the way we have been treating them.

The other fact about Napoleon that bears most on what is happening today is what he did to Prussia. He thought that in making her as weak as he knew how to make her he was arranging for the future safety of France.

Developing history showed that what he intended to be shackles were the things out of which she forged the weapons with which she made herself dangerous.

During the World War a picturesque role played by a fighting ship called the Scharnhorst. That ship was named for the man who thought out a method by which Napoleon's limitation of the size of the Prussian army could be turned into a source of military strength.

UNIVERSAL TRAINING BEGINS.

Instead of having a standing army after the fashion of the time, he invented the idea of meeting Napoleon's limitation on the size of the Prussian army by constantly changing the members of that army, so that Prussia soon became a nation of soldiers, and the modern system of universal training began.

The probability of making errors similar in spirit and equally disastrous is what the Harding administration wishes to prevent if it can. It has no buggy-ride, for it is dealing with a divided Senate at home and with a bunch of crazy politicians on the other side.

SEEK OPEN SHOP ON TRAWLERS

Owners Attempting to Operate Fishing Vessels Offer New Wage Scale

The towboat officials made no statement regarding the latest act of the unions, but were understood to be frantically searching for non-union engineers to take the places of the strikers.

In the shipping strike steamers continue to sail with strike-breaking crews, the big collier Everett clearing yesterday, and the Walter D. Noyes a few hours later, for Hampton Roads. They were delayed several days and were anchored in quarantine.

The United Fruit steamer Esparta sailed today for Santa Marta with a full crew, but a few of whom were strike-breakers. The Clyde liner Lake Kissimee also sailed for Charleston and Jacksonville, both vessels getting away on time. The Lake Kissimee had three different crews during her six days' stay in port.

Owners of steam fishing trawlers that have been tied up since March 1 are making an attempt to operate their vessels on an open-shop basis with a sweeping cut in wages, it became known today.

The agreement with the Fishermen's Union and the Association of Officers expired March 1. The owners at that time submitted a wage scale which both unions rejected.

Since that time an agreement has been reached with the captains and the vessels are being sent to sea with such crews as can be picked up for the wages offered.

Vessels have been sent to Portland, where fishermen were signed up. Among these vessels are the Comber and Tide. The Comber obtained a crew and will be in port Monday with fish.

Under the agreement which expired March 1 the fishermen received $120 a month and a bonus of $3 on every $1,000 earned by the vessel in the Summer and $4 in the Winter.

The new wages which the owners are now attempting to put into effect are $45 on each $1,000 earned up to $1,000 and $2 per $1,000 above $1,000. Before this a fisherman earned $42 and $7 on each $1,000.

Crisis In Shipping Strike Expected Monday

By International News Service

Washington, May 7.—Negotiations for the settlement of the marine union were suspended today with Secretary of Labor Davis in Pittsburgh. The crisis in the controversy will be reached at 10 o'clock Monday morning, when the representatives of the marine workers will give Secretary Davis a final answer as to whether they will accept the fifteen per cent wage reduction insisted upon by Admiral Benson.

Representatives of the marine engineers are in New York today conferring with the men prior to drafting their reply.

The situation was somewhat complicated by the receipt of a telegram from H. H. Raymond, president of the steamship owners' association of New York, rejecting a compromise proposal. Raymond in his telegram refused to sign an agreement for a year with the men and also refused to accept a wage guarantee based on an eight-hour day, plus one hour daily overtime.

Lusitania Was Sunk 6 Years Ago Today

New York, May 7.—Today was the sixth anniversary of the war's greatest horror—the sinking of the Lusitania.

The great liner was torpedoed off the Irish coast by the German submarine U-39 in the afternoon of May 7, 1915, with the loss of 1,154 lives, 114 of them Americans.

SENIORS DANCE AT WELLESLEY

Annual "Prom" Marked by Tower Court Gathering—Operetta to Be Repeated

As part of the annual senior "prom" of the Wellesley students a special tea dance is given in Tower Court and Cazenove this afternoon and evening. "Salt and Pepper," the Wellesley operetta, will be repeated in the Barn this evening.

The seniors held their "prom" in the Copley-Plaza Hotel last evening, a special train bringing them and their guests into town.

The ballroom was decorated with electric lights and the class and college colors. Supper was served at 11:30.

In the receiving line were Constance Whittemore, president of the class; Dean of Residence, Edith S. Tufts, Mr. and Mrs. Lewis Kennedy Morse, the latter honorary member of the senior class, and Eleanor Edwards of Newton Centre, chairman of the prom.

The committee was made up of Miss Edwards, Dorothy Avery, Portland, Me.; Helen E. Miller, Waco, Tex.; Winnifred Schringel, Aurora, Ill., and Catherine D. Twiss, Lawrence.

The patrons and patronesses were: President Ellen Fitz Pendleton, Dean Edith S. Tufts, Dean Alice V. Waite, Mrs. Mary F. Smith, Mrs. Frank B. Whittemore, Mrs. William D. Twiss, Mrs. William P. Edwards, Mr. and Mrs. Lewis K. Morse and Mrs. Galen S. Stone.

MRS. HAZEL FARR DENIES CHARGE IN $50,000 SUIT

Mrs. Hazel Thurston Farr of No. [illegible] Huntington avenue, named as defendant in a $50,000 alienation of affections suit brought by Mrs. Rexford C. Farnsworth, denies that she lived in the same premises with Mr. Farnsworth. Mrs. Farr also denied that she was a director in the Rex Photo Plays, Inc., in which Farnsworth is treasurer. She admitted that she was employed there, stating that her relations with Farnsworth were simply those of employer and employe.

O'BRIEN SAYS HOSPITALS WILL REPLACE PRISONS

Roger N. Baldwin, director of the Civil Liberties Bureau, speaking before the students of Harvard University in the Union, advocated the abolition of prisons, and the substitution of love for the fear of punishment as a means of reforming the present penal system. Thomas C. O'Brien, Boston penal institutions commissioner, declared that moral hospitals should supersede the prisons of today.

DR. P. S. BURNS IS INJURED IN BERLIN

Dr. Patrick S. Burns, remembered by many Boston travelers as ship's doctor of the Leyland liner Winifredian, was injured recently in an automobile accident in Berlin. He was not able to resume his duties and is to come home on another steamer. His home is in Providence.

BRIDE SUICIDE BARES TRAGEDY

Home Said to Have Been Barred Through Runaway Marriage

Keene, N. H., May 7.—A heart tearing story of mother love and a forced separation of mother and daughter because the latter's stepfather is alleged to have refused to allow the girl to return home, following a runaway marriage, is unfolded in the tragic suicide of nineteen-year-old Mrs. Elsie Kimball of North Andover, Mass.

The girl ended her life by gas in a rooming house here after leaving a letter vowing her love for the woman who adopted her when she was a few months old.

Further evidence of her motive came to light today in a verse of original poetry found in the girl's effects. It tells its own story:

CAN I FORGET?

I sit alone in my room at night,
My thoughts to home do wander,
First to the dear one named Loretta,
She is my mother divine.
Oh! Oh! Can I forget her,
No! No! My mother mine.
Mother is my first thought in the morning
She is also my last thought at night.
God bless her.

Friends of the girl tell the tragic story of the girl's love for her foster-mother and her sacrifice in giving up her husband in the hope that she might be permitted to return home.

Her step-father, however, was adamant, it is claimed, and refused to allow the daughter to return unless she would legally separate herself from her husband. She had begun proceedings to break the marriage, when, disheartened and despondent of the continued separation from her foster-mother, she finally took her life.

Through a singular coincidence, the young bride killed herself in a house in which two other young women, within a year and a half, had ended their lives through unrequited love and strangely, too, a man, a roomer there, attempted suicide within the past week and is now confined in the Concord Asylum. The rooming house is run by a spiritualistic medium.

Mrs. Kimball was married here last October to Herbert Eugene Kimball, about her own age, after a romantic courtship. Kimball was a recruiting officer and met the girl, then Elsie Annie Lasmore, in Old Orchard, Me. A week or two after their meeting Kimball came to Keene on recruiting duty and the girl returned to her home in North Andover.

Shortly afterwards the girl ran away from home, joined her sweetheart, and they were married by City Clerk Frank H. Whitcomb.

They went to live for a day or so with the young man's parents here and then, when Kimball was transferred to Manchester, continued their honeymoon there.

Within the week of the marriage, the couple went to the girl's parents in North Andover, seeking forgiveness. Her foster mother readily gave in, it is said, but the latter's husband is said to have ordered her husband off of the premises.

Disheartened, and in an effort to gain reconciliation, the girl and the young soldier agreed to part.

GIRL SCOUTS FORM GUARD AT FUNERAL

A detachment of twenyt-four Girl Scouts formed a guard of honor at the funeral of Frances E. Bailey, fourteen-year-old daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Harry Bailey, Manomet road, North Weymouth. The services were held in the Universalist Church, North Weymouth. Miss Bailey died following an operation for appendicitis a few days ago.

ANOTHER TEST? TO BE SURE! "BEST EVER" IS COMING

Sunday Will Be Fair, Says Forecaster

If the weather man isn't wrong again tomorrow will be fair and warmer. Mr. Smith, the official forecaster, says we will have a short spell of fair weather.

The storm that has been visiting Boston for the past few days is off the coast of Nantucket and is slowly moving out to sea. Warmer weather prevails throughout the country today.

The temperature is above the freezing point at all stations except Modena, Utah, where the mercury reads 30. Key West, Fla., at 72 is the warmest place in the United States. Forty-four above makes Eastport, Me., the coldest place in New England.

Woman Gets $4,125

Keene, N. H., May 7.—Mrs. Sarah Hinds of Hinsdale was awarded a verdict of $4,125 against that town by a jury in Superior Court, for injuries due to a defective railing.

ANOTHER TEST COMING

Will Start Two Weeks From Tomorrow and Will Be Best Ever Conducted

The twenty clerks on duty at Title Test Headquarters completed last night the first sorting of parcels and today began numbering and booking them. The director hopes to have this work completed in one week and on or about Monday, May 16, start upon the actual checking of titles in comparison with the Official List.

On the day the actual checking begins, therefore, we shall be re-printing Test Picture No. 12 and giving its correct title. You will be two weeks ahead of the counters but they promise to work fast.

"We are much further ahead on the Title Test," the director said, "than we were in the Player Identity Test on the corresponding day. In that Test, you recall, we bumped into a holiday almost at the start."

BETWEEN 45,000 AND 50,000.

Next week's work of numbering and recording will give us, among other things, an exact count of the number of parcels. The director in charge of Title Test Headquarters says there are between 45,000 and 50,000.

M. R. B., Quincy—Only one of the titles you name appeared on the same day as the picture. That was the correct title, as printed.

Lowell—You are mistaken.

Correspondents by the score write to the Title Test Editor to know if there is "going to be another Test?" Of course there is! Some correspondents almost demand it. They may rest easy. Two weeks from tomorrow will be inaugurated the most interesting, most exciting Test ever conducted by New England newspapers. Number of awards, 219, as usual. Total value, as usual, $5,000! Wait!

Even if the number of parcels submitted mounts up to 50,000, it still remains true that the reader who finished first in the Test will receive $1,000 in cash, the second in merit $750, the third $500 and so on through the list of $400, $300, $200, $150, $100 and $50 awards to the ten-dollar "encouragers" and the five-dollar consolations.

What will be the top score?

52 PROBABLY HIGH.

The Test Editor's guess is that fifty-one or fifty-two correct titles will win first money and first honors. He will not be surprised, however, if the best record is forty-seven.

Only those who shied at the obvious and went hunting for something clever, something mysterious, something difficult, fell at the six hurdle. The answer stood out in bold relief:

Correct title: A Man and His Money.

Black Hats

Have Returned with Renewed Smartness.

Once more Dame Fashion decrees Black Hats ideally correct for every occasion—for weddings, for evening wear, for afternoon affairs or for business wear. To be smartly costumed there should be at least one Black Hat in every wardrobe.

Sketched is a picturesque hat of Black Lisere straw. Very effectively trimmed with black Chantilly lace, which droops over the brim and fastens into a pretty drape effect at the left side. The white pond lily peeping out from underneath adds a distinctive touch. Priced 30.00

A variety of other models in tailored and dress hats of very fine lisere straw are trimmed with ostrich, glycerine ostrich and burnt goose feather fancies. Some very pretty picture hats are made of lace and straw combined; also some are finished with satin and maline facings. They are priced from 12.50 to 35.00.

FIND CONTENT IN DREAMS

It has been said that our life and experience are greatly enriched by dreams. ...

"Dreams are eternal. Life, like frost on glass, Melts with the rising sun. So mortals pass."

The lines are from an allegorical play called "The Cult of Content," by Noel Leslie (The Four Seas Co.). In a court in the Palace of Dreams sits the veiled figure of Death, surrounded by six cardinal virtues. Into the court enter the spirits of those who dream, obtaining peace, rest and fulfilment.

MAY DANCE WILL BE A REUNION

West Roxbury Folk to Gather at Highland Hall Tuesday Evening

Although planned by its patronesses as another means of swelling the Boston College $2,000,000 building fund, the May dance party planned for next Tuesday evening in Highland Hall, at Centre and Corey streets, promises to be West Roxbury's great Springtime reunion.

Requests for tickets have come from all parts of the district. None will be sold except at the door, on Tuesday evening. There will be dancing from 8 o'clock until midnight.

The affair has been promoted by members of the West Roxbury Catholic Women's Society in honor of the Rev. John T. Broderick, pastor of the St. Theresa's Roman Catholic Church.

Father Broderick was the first person honored by a Boston College degree. He will celebrate the fortieth anniversary of his ordination in June.

"ALL OUT" CALL SIGNAL FOR FIGHT ON CAR

G. Ellis of Somerville and Broad streets, Boston, was given a month in which to pay a $20 fine for assault on several Elevated employes. After taking a subway train he fell asleep and did not awake until the "end of the line" call was sounded, when it is alleged he took some "healthy swings" at several of the employes, a couple of which landed, and as a result he was arraigned in Central Court.

HERO IS DUDE COWBOY

It may be easy for one gifted with a vivid imagination to visualize a hero in a book, emerging from a four years' course at a large college with a decided taste for Battenburg patterns, crocheting and other feminine pastimes and a habit of using nothing but the purest language and otherwise comporting himself perfectly. It is far harder to imagine that same individual transformed into a hard-riding, swearing, drinking, "onery" cowman; but such is what Caroline Lockhart demands of the reader in her latest book, "The Dude Wrangler," published by Doubleday, Page & Co.

The story briefly concerns one Wallie MacPherson, dependent on a maiden aunt and accompanying her as a member of the rocking chair brigade on the exclusive side of a Summer hotel porch. A row with the aunt and a desire to be near a girl who had ridiculed him as "Gentle Annie," impelled him to a homestead tract in Wyoming near the girl's home, where he "dry-farms" it.

The dry-farming pans out badly and by a ruse nothing short of blackmail the hero obtains enough money from his rival to start a "dude" ranch. The front porch brigade rallies to his call, and then befalls a series of episodes which would make an excellent basis for a Keystone comedy scenario.

The author must be commended for her knowledge of the customs and language of her native heath, Wyoming, but an incongruous note sounds throughout the book in her affection of the English spelling in such words as neighbour, labour, odour, savour, etc.

BILL HART KNOWN AS BOYS' AUTHOR

Little boys will learn with regret that their beloved Bill Hart may quit the screen to devote himself to writing. He has already written two books for boys, "Injun and Whitey" and "Injun and Whitey Strike Out for Themselves." TWO NEW PLAYS FOR BOSTON MONDAY

Writing a good play and getting it produced are as different as day from night in the opinion of Frederick S. Isham, author of "Three Live Ghosts," the comedy Max Marcin is presenting Monday at the Plymouth Theatre. While the opinions of critics may vary as to the merits of Mr. Isham's play, the fact that it played an entire season in New York stamps it as a success no matter what the remainder of its career may be. Nevertheless, Mr. Isham carried the play about under his arm from producer to producer for nearly a year before he obtained any encouragement for a production.

"Three Live Ghosts" had been declined with thanks by three of the livest producers in New York before Mr. Marcin read it. This had so discouraged Mr. Isham that he was ready to consign his play to the scrap heap and count it so much white paper wasted. Mr. Marcin at that time was just a fellow author. He had written "Cheating Cheaters," "Eyes of Youth," "House of Glass," "The Woman in Room 13" and other plays, and the royalties from these had established him in a position where he could lend the helping hand to others. Mr. Isham submitted the play to Mr. Marcin as author to author to ascertain what was wrong with his play. Mr. Marcin could see nothing wrong with it—in fact he liked it so well he agreed to produce it and immediately entered the field of producers.

What Is a Cameo?

What kind of a girl is a cameo girl, and when you come to think of it what is a cameo?

"A piece of carved ivory," said one newspaper man.

"It's a medallion breast pin," said a girl in the office.

"A precious stone so cut carved in relief," explained old Noah Webster, and that settles that.

There is plenty of comment regarding "The Cameo Girl," the new musical comedy which invades the Hollis Street Theatre next Monday. In the old days the press agent used to blazon he good cheer his show so heartily that you were always disappointed when you saw it. The system now is to be meek and modest and plead with you not to expect too much. Then you are just as apt to get a pleasant disappointment.

We know that Adelaide and Hughes, the dancers, head the cast, which contains Frank Lalor and a lot of other good people. We presume it is a dancing show, and as this is a dancing season it will probably please.

Why Do Rich Actors Do It?

One of life's mysteries is the patience of actors at rehearsals. How human beings who are ordinarily acclaimed so temperamental can stand the grind and tedium of continuous rehearsals is beyond me.

I dropped in at the Tremont yesterday when "The O'Brien Girl" was rehearsing. George Cohan's very remarkable cast was scattered about the stage. One or two were going through certain scenes. The others draped themselves over chairs or benches in the highest degree of boredom. The chorus were in a waiting, expectant attitude, and had been for hours. Cohan, himself, lounged in a chair in the center of the stage in front of the footlights, and argued things out with Otto Harbach, the author.

There was none of the glitter and snap of a performance. They were even economizing on lights, for the stage was in semi-darkness. You realized that here was the serious business end of acting. "The O'Brien Girl" is an undoubted hit. The audiences are delighted with it, but it doesn't satisfy Cohan yet. As a result the company are playing eight performances a week and rehearsing all the rest of the time.

Ordinary working people would have revolted long ago and set up a Soviet. At least they would have demanded double play for overtime. But actors are not ordinary. That's why I don't take the Equity business too seriously. It will never degenerate into an obstructive and art-destroying union.

Among the bored, tired victims, I noticed Georgia Caine, Fritzi Scheff, Elizabeth Hines, Jimmie Marlowe, Andy Tombes and Cohan himself. When you think that George M. is a millionaire, and he might be sitting at a table at the Rue de la Paix or bucking the tiger at Monte Carlo, or sailing his yacht across the golden Caribbean isn't it curious that he prefers the drudgery and semi-gloom of the Tremont Theatre at rehearsal.

She Is Plural.

Speaking of the O'Brien girl, there are several, among them Madeline O'Brien, the younger sister of Virginia O'Brien, the latter remembered as the prima donna of "The Royal Vagabond" and recently appearing in the title role of Cohan's "Mary." Madeline, like her talented sister, Virginia, is possessed of a remarkably well-trained soprano voice, plus a generous knowledge of stage dancing, charm, youth, personality and determination. She is at present a valued member of the "Honey Girl" company at Selwyns' Park Square Theatre. While both Virginia and Madeline lay claim to Boston as their home, they were in reality born in Bennington, Vt., although the major portion of their education was received in this city. Madeline made her initial stage debut in the chorus of "The Royal Vagabond" nearly two years ago with "Sister Ginnie," who won distinction in the leading feminine role. It is quite safe to predict that a bright future is in store for Sister Madeline.

Peggy Started Young

Few actresses can boast that their musical education began when they were two years of age — but Peggy Wood, who is co-starring with Donald Brian and Ralph Morgan in "Buddies," can.

"I did not become an actress by mere chance," she says. "I wanted to be a singer and this desire was instilled into me from the cradle. My father was not certain that he could leave much money, if at any time he might be called to leave me dependent, but he felt sure that he could train me to earn a good living—and to that end he worked constantly and patiently. When I was two years old he began to sing to me, in order that I might learn tune. He did not sing the jig songs that children are apt to be fed on during the first few years of their lives. Some of the quaint old slumber songs, bits from the famous operas, and what was termed the best music at that time were sung for my small ears.

"Father taught me to appreciate good music and good plays. During my early life much of my time was spent in and around the theatre, for, although my father was not a professional, he had a legion of friends, which gave him entree to the intimate life of the thespians. Having witnessed the best plays and heard the most famous operatic stars of the age I was imbued with a desire to do great things. My musical education brought me great happiness and at no time did it seem a laborious task to study and practice. I looked upon it as a new venture—each new tone being a discovery—and each discovery brought a feeling of happiness and bright hopes for the future.

"Like most of our present day actresses I began in the chorus, but my session in the background was of short duration. Leading roles in 'Love o' Mike,' 'Young America' and 'Maytime' followed, the latter bringing me into prominence and it was in that role that I was 'discovered.' And as Julie in 'Buddies' I have what I believe to be a gem of a role not only for a good singing voice, but for emotional and comedic abilities as well. Now that I have fulfilled my father's wishes and am quite firmly ensconced on the American stage, my profession is my labor and my whole life. It is not work to me—it's my happiness."

Shaun Knows Them All.

Shaun O'Farrell, the Irish troubadour from Dublin, whose singing and portrayal of Irish roles with the Arlington Players at the Arlington Theatre has proven a great popular success, is personally acquainted with all the Irish leaders, and was for some time associated with the Countess Markiewicz in many of the plays presented by the Gaelic League to spread the Irish language and Irish nationhood, in the plays of Padraic Pearse, the first president of the republic of Ireland and in a play written by the Countess' husband, in which Connolly, who was commandant of the troops in the Dublin postoffice during the week of the 1916 rebellion, playing the leading part.

He is a staunch admirer of President De Valera, and is also well acquainted with Lord Mayor O'Callaghan, at whose brother's house in a southern Irish county he spent Christmas a year ago. He has witnessed many scenes of British frightfulness and was in Kilmallock when it was burned by the Black and Tan.

Three Big Photoplays

Persons who regard motion pictures as an art (there are those who do not) will have an admirable opportunity to study its most advanced phase by attending the three films now showing in this city.

In "The Four Horsemen of the Apocalypse" we have a very big novel set upon the screen. It is told as a photoplay in a straightforward manner. The incidents of the novel are so remarkable and absorbing that the director had only to set them before his camera.

In "Dream Street" we have a smaller canvas, a story much less important, but the director, D. W. Griffith, could make a picture out of the dictionary or the city directory. It is more interesting as a study in artful treatment and in photographic ingenuity as achieved in America than as a narrative.

"Deception" is the development of the art in Germany, and the excellence of the picture is more remarkable because our late enemies never amounted to shucks as artists. Their paintings were uniformly bad, their statues worse, their plays far below the level of the English and French stage, and their operas save for the works of one man, Wagner, quite beneath contempt.

It is obvious that the Germans have made important discoveries regarding the use of lights in making photoplays. The amazing beauty of the big scenes in "Deception" are more remarkable because they are so different in the point of view of photography from our best American works.

It is the distinction between a fine portrait and a fine photograph. In some amazing way the Germans have got the art of portraiture for the screen, and our directors will have to stop spluttering about German films and find out how they do it.

It's the Smile That Wins.

The public soon makes the most genial box office man grouchy, but those boys at the Wilbur, Frank Hoyt, Arthur Manley and Tommie Roche resist the temptation to respond in kind to public lack of understanding. As a result they have a lot of friends who propose to attend their testimonial performance of "Buddies" next Monday night.

Ghost Hunting.

The plot of three live ghosts deals with the adventures of three soldiers who came back to this country to find out that they had been officially reported dead. Therefore the management of the Plymouth is inquiring if there are any such living-dead soldiers in Boston.

The play started a search for such men in New York, and according to the press agent, who looks honest, two thousand men were found who had come home from the war to find the highly intelligent War Department had reported them dead and gone. Even if the P. A. has slipped an extra cipher on this score it is a remarkable showing for the ghosts. Wonder if Boston will turn up any. I understand they intend to do something for such persons at the Plymouth if they will make themselves known, materialize themselves, as it were.

Rose Like a Rocket.

Marie Wells, who has the prima donna role in Adelaide and Hughes' new musical piece, "The Cameo Girl," coming to the Hollis Monday night, has been on the stage now less than a year.

She is a Southern girl, was born and raised on a plantation near the little town of Cleveland, Mississippi, where her father, Captain Eli A. Wells, was a famous Mississippi River cotton trader. The young miss first attracted attention to her voice when she was attending the Mississippi Synodical College at Holly Springs, and as the representative of that school won a gold medal for possessing the best voice among all the singers enrolled in the various schools of the state.

About this time, her father's health failing, the young singer began considering a stage career as the best means of supporting her mother. She sang for J. J. Schubert on one of the latter's trips to Chicago and was immediately put under contract by that manager and sent on to New York to rehearse with the "Floradora" company. Because of her splendid voice, she was chosen from more than a score of applicants to be Eleanor Painter's understudy, and when that prima donna was suddenly taken ill Miss Wells stepped into the leading role and played it for more thaan a week during the run at the Century Theatre, New York.

HOLLIS STREET THEATRE

For an engagement of two weeks beginning next Monday night, May 9, those international dancing celebrities, Adelaide and Hughes, will come to the Hollis in a new musical piece entitled "The Cameo Girl." Described as a fantasy in two acts and six scenes, this newest piece, which is said to be of the light order designed for warm weather amusement, affords its dancing co-stars, heretofore content to appear for a brief space only on the vaudeville stages and in the New York Winter Garden productions with which they have been seen in Boston, an opportunity to exploit their well-known talents in a full evening's entertainment.

There are sixteen musical numbers in "The Cameo Girl," the tunes of which were written by James Monaco and Bel Gallier, while the lyrics are by Grant Clarke and Ballard Macdonald. The book is by Neil Twomey and Miss Gallier, the production having been conceived and staged in its entirety by J. J. Hughes. It is said to be essentially a dancing show, one of the elaborate features being an "Arabian Nights" Ballet.

The cast includes such well-known musical comedy names as Frank Lalor, John Philbrick, Marie Wells, George Trabert, Henrietta Lee, Gladys Miller, Stanley Hughes, Ralph Walker, Diana Walton, Constance Brady, Dorothy Buckley, Mary Hotchkiss and a youthful chorus of clever dancers.

ARLINGTON THETARE

"Tom Moore," an Irish play along unconventional lines dealing with the life of the famous Celtic poet, will be the offering of the Arlington players at the Arlington Theatre beginning next Monday.

Shaun O'Farrell, the Irish troubadour, who achieved such a signal success with this fine company this week will be featured and his singing should prove an attraction.

The play written by Theodore Burt Sayre was presented here at the old Boston Museum in 1902 by Andrew Mack, the noted Irish singing actor whose role will be portrayed by O'Farrell.

The story concerns life in Dublin and London, in the early part of the nineteenth century when the poetic young Irishman was struggling for fame, in dire poverty.

PLYMOUTH THEATRE

Max Marcin sends "Three Live Ghosts" to the Plymouth Theatre next week for a limited engagement beginning Monday evening with the promise of nothing more than a lively jolly evening at the theatre. One of the most exacting critics in New York in writing of this Frederick S. Isham comedy during its run of nearly a solid year in that city, said it was the kind of a play one is glad they saw; that he was sorry when it was all over because he could have enjoyed that kind of a play and the excellent cast an hour longer, at least.

Mr. Isham hit upon the idea after the World War was ended and men who had long been mourned as dead began to wander home from the German prison camps. He took three of this type, one a jolly, likeable coster from London, a shell-shocked officer and a young American, revealing the romance of the American's life. That there is plenty of fun in the story is attested by the successful life of the piece in New York. It overcrowded the Greenwich Village Theatre, sent the comedy uptown to the Nora Bayes Theatre, and kept that house in the throes of prosperity all season. It comes here direct from its run at the Nora Bayes, and with the cast exactly as it finished there. The cast includes Charles McNaughton, Daisy Belmore, Cyril Cradwick, Elise Bartlett, Emmett Shackelford, Olive Reeves-Smith, Frank Monroe, Cordelia MacDonald and Walter Lewis.

Mr. Marcin is better known to theatre-goers as an author, having written "Cheating Cheaters," "Eyes of Youth," "House of Glass," "The Woman in Room 13," and similar thrillers.

B. F. KEITH'S THEATRE

Julian Eltinge, returning from a tour of the world, during which he amassed fame and fortune as a star of stage and screen, to the city of his professional debut and early triumphs, will be the headliner at B. F. Keith's Theatre beginning next Monday. Eltinge, remembered here as the one-time star of the amateur theatricals then given annually by [illegible] and by the First Corps Cadets, has not visited this city in several years. He brings with him a host of new songs, new gowns of the dernier mode Parisienne, and new portrayal of the eternal feminine.

Ralph Riggs and Katherine Witchie, the dancers, also returning with fresh laurels won in other lands are the featured members of the program next to Eltinge.

Miss Jul[illegible] will be seen in "A [illegible] Revue," conceived by herself and written by Harry Delf. [illegible] will preside at the piano. Jean Adair and Company will present "In Any Home," a one-act comedy by J. J. McNally, Jr., in the cast of which will appear Fritz Adams, Jacqulin Mason and Joseph B. Hughes, as well as Miss Adair herself. Dooley and Storey, one of the most versatile teams on the variety stage, will offer a two-person vaudeville repast for epicureans, "Vaudeville in A La Carte."

SELWYNS' PARK SQUARE

"Honey Girl" begins its third successful week in the Selwyn's Park Square Theatre on Monday evening, having completely recaptivated the public by its fragrant romance; its lovely, lilting music; its clean and clever comedy and its scores of dancing and singing stars. "Honey Girl," it will be remembered, scored a sensational success last season and was snatched away and taken to New York.

SOMERVILLE THEATRE

Manager Clyde N. McArdle announces "La La Lucille," as the attraction for the coming week at the Somerville Theatre. "La La Lucille" is a fast moving comedy with music and it is funnier than "She Walked in Her Sleep." Arthur Vinton will have the leading male role and one that is particularly suited to his abilities. Helen Neff the new ingenue will interpolate several song and dance numbers and Miss Anne Bronaugh, the vivacious leading lady, will for the first time since her association with the Somerville Players, play the role of the slavey. Harry Lyons, the new favorite, will also have a splendid role. Miss Margaret Mason will be introduced as the new second woman of this organization.

ACTORS' FUND BENEFIT

The annual actors' fund benefit will be held this season at the Tremont Theatre on Friday afternoon, May 20. As in former years the entertainment will enlist the services of all the leading players appearing in current attractions, and Mr. Daniel Frohman has arranged for the presence of several stars from New York in special offerings. There will, of course, be presented some original one-act plays, and vaudeville will be represented by some headline acts.

A feature de luxe for the program has been made possible by the cooperation of Boston society members who give their services in recognition of the aid the members of the acting profession gave during the many war activities' drives. One of these features is the appearance of members of the Vincent Club, who will present the drill and cock-fight numbers from their recent show. A spectacular number will be "Ports of the World," presented by twenty-four Boston debutantes. In this each of the characters symbolizes different world ports. The "debs" will be supplemented by 100 sailors from the Boston navy yard.

LOEW'S COLUMBIA

At Loew's Columbia Theatre the initial three days of the week four acts of selected vaudeville will be staged in addition to the showings of an all-star photoplay, "The Lure of Youth," which is based on a story of unusual appeal, and Hobart Bosworth, a prime favorite with lovers of the cinema in "A Thousand to One." A new comedy and latest news events will also be shown.

SUFFOLK THEATRE

Ralph Ince, the great producer, offers his latest production in "Out of the Snows" at the Suffolk Theatre, Boston, rear of State House, week of May 9. A more interesting and exciting picture has not been witnessed for some time. All the great works of the famous Mounted Police, with its dangers and thrills, is pictured in "Out of the Snows."

McISAAC says that

"THE O'BRIEN GIRL" at the Tremont is another George M. Cohan production, with music and book by the authors of "Mary." It's a speedy and high stepping show. Star cast.

WILLIAM FAVERSHAM at the Shubert in "The Prince and the Pauper," has a romantic play of unusual charm. Sharing honors with the star is Miss Findlay, who plays the dual role of prince and pauper.

"HONEY GIRL" at the Park Square continues. It's a better repeat attraction than most shows which have essayed return engagements here.

"BUDDIES" at the Wilbur is also repeating well. Donald Brian, Peggy Wood and the other well known people in the cast have drawing powers. Besides, it's a good show.

THE BIG FILMS.

"THE FOUR HORSEMEN OF THE APOCALYPSE" at Tremont Temple is a good dramatization of a great book. It's worth a visit.

"DREAM STREET" at the Majestic is another picture of the Limehouse district of London, done by D. W. Griffith upon the tales by Thomas Burke. It features Carol Dempster.

"DECEPTION" at the Colonial is not only a remarkable photoplay, but it is receiving a very wonderful production. Hugo Riesenfeld has an orchestra of forty and a chorus of twenty.

ALL HAD TO WAIT AT CHURCH

Once in a while a bride is left "waiting at the church" or is "deserted at the altar," or a bridegroom is jilted at "the eleventh hour," but it has never yet occurred, so far as can be ascertained, that bride, groom and clergyman, all dressed up for the occasion, had to sit around waiting for the church to be finished and dried out, until three players in "Proxies," a big Paramount picture, which will be shown at the Modern and Beacon Theatres next week, had that fate at the International Film Studios.

Raye Dean and M. J. Healey were dressed to appear in their wedding garments at a given time and they found that the stage carpenters were still completing the altar and it was a rainy day and the material had not yet dried out. So groom in his "Sunday best" and the clergyman in full church regalia entertained themselves as best they could until, by means of electric fans and a battery of highly powerful electric lamps the church was in readiness.

Mary Again

In "Through the Back Door," Mary Pickford's forthcoming United Artists' release, this clever little artist will be afforded an opportunity for the display of talent equaled only in such previous productions as "Pollyanna" and "Daddy Long Legs."

"Through the Back Door" will have its first presentation at the Park, Modern and Beacon for one week starting Monday, May 16.

It is the first picture in which Little Mary ever worked under the guidance of two directors, Alfred E. Green and Mary's brother, Jack, sponsored this production, and the result of their combined efforts is said to prove further the truth of the old adage, "Two heads are better than one."

The outstanding feature of "Through the Back Door" is the delightful comedy sequences scattered throughout the picture. In a little girl role Miss Pickford has a chance to become involved in innumerable complications, all provocative of mirth, yet touched with that pathos which stamps this greatest of all ingenues as mistress of her art.

Beauty Not Necessary.

Though possessed of unusual beauty and grace, Pauline Frederick, acclaimed as the foremost emotional actress of the silent drama, claims that beauty is not essential to success in the cinema field. Types are far more in demand than beauties at the present stage of the motion picture industry. If, of course, one has beauty and ability to portray different types, submerging their own personality completely, then so much the better. That she has this ability is proven conclusively in "Roads of Destiny," which will be shown the closing half of the week at Loew's Orpheum Theatre. Miss Frederick has three distinctly different roles in the three episodes, which are woven together into one great big story of graphic appeal. The story was adapted to the screen from Channing Pollock's great stage play, which was in turn taken from the famous story of O. Henry. "Roads of Destiny" is a picture of universal appeal, brilliantly acted and superbly directed.

COLONIAL THEATRE

The Riesenfeld presentation of the Paramount picture, "Deception," at the Colonial Theatre has been received by Boston patrons in a deservedly hearty manner. The large orchestra, male chorus and special effects afford a real sensation to photoplay patrons in the magnifying of the pleasure attendant upon witnessing the unrolling of a film.

"Deception" is a massive and beautiful picturization of the life and times of King Henry VIII of England, whose amours are dealt with and most particularly the romance of Henry and Anne Boleyn. It appears to have been a romance fully alive with drama and stirring episodes. It begins with Anne's first appearance at the court and with Henry's first glimpse of her, continuing through to the casting off of Katherine, Anne's marriage with the king, the birth of her child, which later became Queen Elizabeth of England, and ends with Anne's trial and execution and Henry's marriage to her successor, Lady Seymour. The story is worked out logically and with striking dramatic effect.

Of the work of the principals, too much cannot be said of Henny Porten, who plays Anne Boleyn. She is a splendid actress and in her emotional scenes she arises to great heights. Emil Jannings, as King Henry, offers one of the most thorough characterizations of "bluff old King Hal," and makes of him truly a living figure. "Deception" is one of the most noteworthy photoplay attractions to reach the American screen for many a year, and the Riesenfeld presentation of it appears destined to provide an entertainment sensation for Boston audiences for long to come.

"Deception" will be shown Sundays continuously from 3 to 11 p. m. and the daily performances are continuous from noon to 11 p. m.

NORUMBEGA PARK OPENS

One of the pleasurable events of each Spring, for the past twenty-four years, has been the season's opening of the famous Norumbega Park, located in Auburndale on the banks of the historically famed Charles river, this particular spot being famous in history for the Norsemen, headed by Leif Ericson and Thorwald, more than 900 years ago, having established their first colony there.

The Norumbega management this season will be under the careful guidance of Mr. Carl Alberts. Mr. Alberts has done much to promote the success of this great park de luxe, of Greater Boston, and this season bids fair to outstrip anything ever attempted in previous years.

The great out-door theatre has been thoroughly renovated, and many new and important changes made. The policy this season will be advanced vaudeville and big super feature motion pictures. The bill changes weekly and the shows run twice daily, afternoons at 3, evenings at 8, with a special show for the "kiddies" each Tuesday, Wednesday and Friday mornings at 11:30.

A first-class restaurant where dancing may be enjoyed together with many other features should go to make Norumbega Park one of the outstanding attractions to all outdoor amusement resorts.

D. W. GRIFFITH'S

Newest Dramatic Comedy

DREAM STREET

The acting and directing are so perfectly attuned that the audience forgets that it is looking at a film, and seems to be watching the actors and actresses in real life. This is a triumph for Mr. Griffith of which he should be proud.—GLOBE.

The name of D. W. Griffith long since has come to stand for that which the rank and file of motion pictures woefully lack—poetry, consistency and a beautiful simplicity. All these seem to us to have culminated in this, his latest production. It is difficult to avoid being fulsome in writing of it. It is the sort of thing for which believers in the motion picture have long waited; a supremely beautiful and moving film drama.—HERALD.

David Wark Griffith has given many sterling productions to filmdom in which he has spared neither time nor expense. He is placed in the front rank of those who have brought the motion picture to its present lofty standard but in all his efforts he has never given a better, a more convincing picture and one which will accomplish more good, both as an entertainment and as an influence in the right direction, than "Dream Street," which was offered for the first time in Boston last evening at the Majestic Theatre.—POST.

Griffith has written the epics of the motion picture screen—"The Birth of a Nation," "Intolerance," "Hearts of the World." We have just witnessed the amazing success of a simple little melodrama, "Way Down East" as filmed by him. You might call him the Homer of the motion picture. From the point of technique this picture yields nothing to any.—AMERICAN.

It is Griffith, a softer, more delicately treading Griffith than the screen is wont to see, but from first to last it is Griffith.—TRANSCRIPT.

It is the simplicity of the Griffith pictures that makes them so great and it is the simple pathetic incidents of "Dream Street"—incidents like the conceit of "Spike" McFadden, which is first reflected in his very walk and then the change when he learns the girl really loves him—that make it a great picture.—TRAVELER.

"Dream Street" is perhaps the most satisfying of the Griffith productions in many respects.—RECORD.

Every man and every woman who realizes the importance of education, who has an earnest desire for culture and a broadened vision, should see this picture. It is no more a mere movie film than Shakespeare's masterpieces are mere books.—Editorial, TELEGRAM.

BRAVES AFTER FINAL GAME

McQuillen Ready to Pitch Against Phillies With Ring Up

By NICK FLATLEY.

The return of sunshine to these parts gave the Braves a chance to get in the ultimate game with Wild Donovan's Phils, and incidentally improve their standing in the league a bit. The big ball yard dries quickly, and conditions underfoot, while not the best in the world, weren't too tough.

Hugh McQuillen, who has been resting up sufficiently to do his real brand of twirling, was elected to steer the Mitchellmen to victory, with Joe Oeschger in reserve. Jimmy Ring, once a champion Red, was Wilber Donovan's initial selection.

• • •

A team that's unlucky in the spring should be fortunate in the summer, so it looks like first division for the Mitchells.

• • •

Some rest is a good thing, but perpetual vacation is beginning to worry Manager Mitchell. He brought his flock of pitchers up from the South in good condition. Then the cold weather ruined the various arms.

That was eliminated by careful selection, but now when steady work would get the staff in something like regular order, the showers and chill breezes and everything make baseball out of the question.

Athletes who have been training hard, as the Braves have, run a great chance of going stale without exercise. Then the conditioning will have to start all over again.

• • •

Tuesday the westerners arrive at the big ball yard, and perhaps they will bring a little of their own warm weather along. It's needed badly hereabouts.

• • •

There's more than passing interest in the game the Boston College outfit plays the Braves at the Wigwam Monday. It's for a great cause, of course, but all the resident scouts are anxious to get a line on the ability of the B. C. stars up against the real thing.

Fitzpatrick and Roderick have been recommended to more than one large league manager for pitching jobs, while several clubs would like to give Urban a tryout. There will be a hundred per cent attendance of the ivory hunters at the exhibition game, anyhow.

• • •

The Braves are ready to trade two outfielders for a pitcher. Most of us would swap three or four for the right kind of a pitcher.

• • •

Any team with real batting strength is bound to cut a figure in the long stretch of a league campaign. The Allston residents have the wallop, and consequently cannot be rated out of the running yet. When they get any kind of pitching, their carefree assault will result in victory.

That's the reason that no extra furrows have decorated the brow of the manager or owner. After waiting years for results, a few weeks more or less mean nothing.

$160,000 FOR POLO

Kentucky Derby and a $50,000 Purse
Daro Responds to B. C. Drive

—By Jack Conway—

One hundred and sixty thousand dollars will be the expense of the American polo team, according to a news dispatch from London. Of this amount, $80,000 has already been spent for fifty ponies. The remaining $80,000 will go to defray the other expenses connected with a perfectly respectable polo team. The dispatch adds that Captain Deveraux Milburn and the members of the team have been made honorary members of the Bucks Club and have been deluged with invitations to attend society functions. To use the words of a song a very clever young lady sings at one of the local theatres, "Ain't it grand?" We hope the writer of this song will pardon the use of the word it instead of he.

• • •

The Kentucky Derby will be staged at Louisville today. America's leading race horses will battle for a $50,000 purse. This sum is considerably under $80,000, but it is only for ONE race. The horses who will compete in the Derby have more trainers and attendants than a war profiteer has footmen and butlers. Mothers, trying to secure enough food and clothing for their children, would be astonished if they could actually see the care and attention that is given to great race horses. But then a Man o' War wins $50,000 purses.

• • •

Wrestlers are still giving their time and money to worthy causes. The Irish fund benefited as a result of the championship bout between Strangler Lewis and Stanislaus Zbyszko in New York. Promoter Lou Daro now announces that the profits of his big wrestling tournament at the Boston Arena next Wednesday will go to swell the Boston College fund. Very good for Mr. Daro, Renato Gardini and the other gentlemen who are associated with him. It is refreshing to occasionally meet people who do actual deeds of charity rather than engage in inexpensive conversation about what they would like to do.

• • •

Daro's show will find Joe Stecher, former world's wrestling champion, opposing Ole Jacobson of Norwood in the feature match. Stecker lost his title to Lewis, but is not the least discouraged. He is still young, strong and courageous and says he will win back his lost laurels. Stecker's spirit is unbroken. Therefore he will score new conquests and possibly regain his title.

• • •

Babe Ruth knocked another home run yesterday. This brought him on even terms with George Kelly. Both men now have seven home runs to their credit. Kelly, as we have pointed out before, will get a number of additional home runs before the season ends. Ruth will get many more home runs. There will not be any contest between Ruth and Kelly by August 1.

• • •

Nate Siegal, New England's welterweight champion, must be given credit for having the courage to enter a ring with dangerous rivals. He fought and defeated Ted (Kid) Lewis, who was supposed to be a high class boxer at the time the match was made. He now agrees to clash with Marty Summers of New York under the direction of the Armory A. A. at Mechanics Building next Tuesday night. Summers all but defeated Eddie Shevlin in this city last Fall. If Siegal is able to win over Summers he will have proved he possesses the necessary ability to make things interesting for any of his local ambitious rivals.

Carpentier Gleeful Over Coming Bout

Paris, May 7.—Georges Carpentier, who left today for America to prepare for his engagement with Champion Jack Dempsey, before leaving told of his pleasure in anticipating the coming scrap.

"I am delighted at the opportunity to face this terrible man-killer. I am not frightened. I am only looking forward to the time when I shall prove to my opponent that I am not a lamb.

"I do not care to commit myself to any prediction as to the number of rounds that will be necessary for my victory, but you may bet that I will find Jack Dempsey's weak spot pretty quickly and will end the encounter in a few rounds.

"Until Dempsey whips me I shall decline to admit that he is a better man than I am."

JONES ON HILL AGAINST A'S

Duffy Sends Pitching Ace After Final Tilt With Mackmen

Philadelphia, May 7.—There are times in every baseball manager's career when he is obliged to shift his hopes. Such a time came today to Hughey Duffy, pilot of the Red Sox, who after warming up Herbie Pennock for a quarter of an hour, changed his mind and sent Sam Jones, Boston pitching ace, to the mound.

It would be unfair to term the event as a matter of "cold feet," but it did show that Duffy was mighty anxious to get even with the Mackmen for the way in which they trampled on his proteges in the last encounter of the two teams.

The Sox had got the jump in that contest by scoring four markers in the fourth inning and, though they had permitted the Athletics to crawl up, were on even terms entering the last half of the eighth.

When Galloway bumped into Stuffy McInnis on the first base line as the latter was trying to field a wild throw by Pitt, the beans were spilled. Had Stuffy accomplished the play, the side would have been retired and the Red Sox would have gone into the ninth with a good chance of victory. But a single and a home run into the centre field bleachers followed making in all four runs and the Bostonians didn't show even a flutter of fight in the final frame.

NAVY FAVORITE IN REGATTA

Harvard and Princeton Eights Meet Middy Crew on Carnegie Lake

Princeton, N. J., May 7.—There was one thing that the crew coaches agreed upon about the triangular race here today between Harvard, Princeton and the Naval Academy. That was that the Middies should be out in front when the mile and three quarters race was over. Even the coaches of the opposing shells believed it. Listen to what Coach Bill Haines of Harvard let out:

"We have a fairly good crew, but if the Navy shows the same form and speed that it did against Pennsylvania, Glendon's crew will win."

Dr. Spaeth, the professional mentor of Princeton aquatics, stated:

"This Navy crew appears almost as formidable as last year's, which won the Olympic championship after doing so well at home. The Navy looks like the No. 1 crew."

A few words from Dick Glendon, coach of the Navy, concluded the symposium. Dick chirped:

"Harvard is said to be three strokes faster than last year, and Princeton has made the best time of any former Tiger crew if reports are to be believed. They are both good eights, but I am backing the Navy to win."

Both Harvard and Princeton were much disappointed at the eleventh hour withdrawal of the Navy second and plebe crews. In consequence the Tiger cubs met the Harvard tadpoles, while the scrubs were also opposed. All races were over the mile and three-quarters course.

The races came after the track meet between Yale and Princeton in the Palmer Stadium. The affair did not rank with other regattas because of the limitations for observing the races. Only 5,000 people had an opportunity to see the regatta.

Ted Olmstead, No. 4 on Harvard, who had been threatened with appendicitis, was in shape. He has been rowing since Thursday. Harvard hadn't had a good practice in a week until its trips on Lake Carnegie on account of the rough water in the Basin.

Navy's crew, with its six Olympic veterans, averaged 179 pounds, the heaviest eight on the water. The Harvard varsity weighed 177 and Princeton 172.

Bill Meiklejohn, the Columbia graduate who handles all the crew races worth while, refereed the three races. The varsity was the last race rowed. The varsity rowing orders follow:

Harvard—Bow, Damon; 2, Morgan; 3, Atkinson; 4, Olmsted; 6, Ladd; 6, Mauerg (captain); 7, Terry; stroke, Brown; coxswain, Pelrson.

Navy—Bow, Lee; 2, Frawley; 3, Jordan; 4, Moore (captain); 5, Sanborn; 6, Johnston; 7, Gallagher; stroke, King; coxswain, Clark.

Princeton—Bow, Brown; 2, Vienna; 3, Oliver; 4, Curtis; 5, Lewis; 6, Morgan; 7, Burgess; stroke, Lee; coxswain, Wood.

Bambino Sued for Loan

New York, May 7.—Babe Ruth of the Yankees is being sued by Edwin P. Oakes of Chicago, who alleges he holds a promissory note for $400, signed by the star slugger. Ruth, it is alleged, signed the note September 26, 1920.

The average American home is a great institution. You go into one of our Yankee houses and are glad that you're in America. As you enter the old English door the first thing you step on is a Turkish rug.

Then you look around the room and see a couple of men sitting in front of a Holland brick fireplace smoking Egyptian cigarettes.

You look out of the French windows on to the conservatory and see a lot of beautiful Scotch heather in bloom.

If you're chilly the hostess gives you a MEXICAN blanket to throw around your shoulders.

Then the little kid wants you to go out in the back yard and look at his BELGIUM hares.

It's dark, so you take a ROMAN candle off the mantel and nearly upset a piece of GRECIAN statuary doing it.

When you come back into the house again the IRISH maid announces that supper is served.

After you wash your hands in the ITALIAN marble washbowl you go into the dining room.

The hostess then shows you your place at a CHINESE teakwood table.

She tells you that she is serving some food which was baked in her new DUTCH oven.

You don't pay any attention to her because you are interested in looking at the flowers in the beautiful RUSSIAN bronze bowl on the table.

Pretty soon the SCANDINAVIAN maid comes in with the supper.

You take a good look at it and discover that it's a SPANISH omelette.

After this, you get your tea in a JAPANESE cup and saucer.

It's hot at first, so you test it with a GERMAN silver spoon.

Then you get up from the table and notice how nice and soft the PERSIAN carpet is.

After you sit around for a little while you notice by the SWISS clock on the mantel that it's time to go home.

You find that you left your pocketbook in your apartment, so you ask the hostess to lend you carfare. When you get on the car you discover that she gave you a CANADIAN quarter.

You remark to your husband what wonderful American people the Browns are and what a wonderful American home they've got.

BIG POLE WINS WORLD'S TITLE

Stanislaus Zbyszko Pins Lewis to Mat in 23 Minutes and 17 Seconds

New York, May 7.—Stanislaus Zbyszko does not believe in the old adage that youth must be served. Before 13,000 persons who turned out to witness the title bout he pinned the shoulders of his more youthful opponent, Ed ("Strangler") Lewis, to the mat in just 23 minutes and 17 seconds, and won the heavyweight wrestling championship of the world at the 22d Regiment Armory.

The end came so suddenly that the spectators hardly realized what had happened.

Standing in the centre of the ring, Lewis, the champion, leaped upward in an effort to secure his deadly head-lock. He missed, stumbled and fell backward.

This misstep proved fatal, for as Lewis' body plunged backward the Pole buried the full force of his 258 pounds on his adversary.

The challenger secured a half nelson and pinned Lewis to the mat.

BON VOYAGE, GEORGES.

Did Georges salve the folks at Havre, as off he sailed today?
I'll say he did;
By cablegram, I learned the slam he voiced in his sweet way—
'Twas real French kid.

"My friends," says he, "attendez me, a word I would speak to you—
In Amerique I'll do ze trique, zat none but me can do;
Zis M'sieur Jacques, he sink he makes one punching sack of me,
Non, non, I say, it's not zat way zis bout's about to be—
Zis Dempsey, he is made for me—I whip him wiz grand ease—
One punch I give and, as I live, he'll look like one old cheese;
I give one more and on ze floor I'll lay Jacques like a log,
Zen, toute de suite, ze crowd zey greet with 'Ray for George ze Frog.
And Jacques will lay 'most all ze day, while zey sink he is dead,
Zen, to my France, I'll homeward prance, ze crown upon my head."

Such was the salve the folks at Havre heard Georges crack today—
The wise French kid;
It made them sing, 'Live, Georges, old thing," as he sailed on his way—
I'll say it did.

BLUE taffeta and gray Canton crepe make the decidedly unusual afternoon dress at the left. Crepe panels of different lengths and widths, ending in loops of taffeta, achieve a graceful confusion. The long tight sleeves and the oddly-shaped yoke are of taffeta, while the lower part of the blouse is of crepe laid in wide pleats. The panels are repeated at the back, where the taffeta belt ends in a wide flat bow. Taffeta also makes the under-skirt. Exceedingly becoming is the hat of black Milan straw with its trimming of uncurled ostrich.
